Re: Product / Operations Role — Healthcare AI (India)

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my interest in product and operations roles at Cohere Health's India office. As an AI-first healthcare company focused on prior authorization and care pathway optimization, Cohere Health's mission resonates deeply with my career at the intersection of healthcare RCM operations and AI product development.

With 16+ years directing end-to-end revenue cycle operations for US healthcare providers, I have deep firsthand experience with the prior authorization challenges that Cohere Health is solving. I have managed authorization workflows, dealt with denial patterns caused by missing or incorrect prior auth, and built processes to reduce authorization-related revenue leakage. I understand the problem from the provider's perspective — and I have built technology to address it.

I am the founder and architect of Denial Doctor, a production HIPAA-compliant multi-agent AI platform for healthcare claim denial management. This system uses 6 specialist AI agents — including an Eligibility agent that specifically handles prior authorization verification and coverage determination — to process denied claims end-to-end. The platform generates corrected codes, scrubs claims for resubmission, and drafts appeal letters with verified regulatory citations. Building this required deep understanding of healthcare workflows, AI/ML integration, and HIPAA compliance.

Cohere Health's Hyderabad office and remote-friendly approach make this opportunity especially appealing. I am based in India, experienced working US healthcare hours, and ready to contribute to Cohere Health's mission of making prior authorization intelligent and efficient. My unique combination of domain expertise, AI product engineering, and operational leadership would allow me to contribute meaningfully across product, operations, or strategy functions.

I would welcome a conversation about how my background can support Cohere Health's growth in India and beyond.
